Last week, I asked all of the students in our class, “How many hours do you use the Internet on a weekday?” The graph shows how many hours the students in our class use the Internet on a weekday. It also shows the number of students in each category. There are forty students in our class. From this graph, we can see that (A) of the students in our class use the Internet for more than two hours on a weekday. I think using the Internet for more than five hours on a weekday is too much for junior high school students. We can see that (B) of the students use the Internet too much. We have a lot of homework to do every day. I don’t know what these students do on the Internet, but I’m a little worried about it.

The Internet is very useful and has become an important part of our lives. We can find a lot of information about a lot of things in the world quickly. We can also buy many kinds of things through the Internet without difficulty.

There are some problems with the Internet. First, some people use the Internet
